This leisure scheme at Bexleyheath in South East London was developed by THI in association with the London Borough of Bexleyheath to regenerate the eastern end of the Broadway.

It is anchored by Cine UK and Gala Bingo.

Before works commenced an archeological investigation was undertaken as the site was adjacent to the route of an old Roman road.

The site was split into 2 distinct areas:

- Leisure - comprising:
  - Multiplex Cinema
  - Bingo Hall
  - Three restaurants
  - A service yard
- A Multi-storey car park

To give the buildings a distinctive appearance the Architect adopted an "Art Deco Style" utilising large panels of through-coat render with alternative bands of black and white blockwork.
