

Olympic Games Athens, Greece

Project: Olympic Games
Athens

Client: Municipality of Amaroussion

Role: Development
Management

Value: € 90 million

Providing development management advice to the municipality of Amaroussion between 2000 and 2002, Manly played a key role in a number of projects linked to the 2004 Olympic Games. This included: the Olympic Games Media Village, a 71,000 sq m residential development to house media correspondents during the games; preparation of a development brief to re-develop a previously derelict site on the approach to the Olympic site into covered botanical gardens; preparation of a development brief to guide the development of a previously un-used site into a new science park including a university campus, and industrial units for the local ceramics industry.